

Research Assistant Opportunity

The Politics After War Research Network

The Politics After War Research Network is a newly established research network that brings together scholars and practitioners working on topics related to rebel group reconversion, political parties, state-building and governance in post-civil war contexts. The network's activities include academic workshops, collaborative publications and research projects as well as public dissemination.

I am looking for a part-time research assistant to develop the network's online profile and assist with pending administrative tasks related to the network's activities. The RA's main tasks will include:

- Developing the Politics After War Research Network's webpage
- Write texts for the webpage in collaboration with the project leader
- Help organise the next network conference to be held in April 2018

Qualifications

I am looking for a dedicated person who can work independently with setting up a webpage. The person will be innovative and resourceful with ideas for best to develop the network's online profile. The following skills are an advantage:

- Some experience and interest in building the network's webpage using pre-existing interface (for instance wordpress or wix).
- Good written communication skills
- Some familiarity with the field the research theme of the network.

The hours are flexible and negotiable, but I am initially looking for up to 10 hours per week on average for a total of 150 hours with the possibility for more. Pay-grade 5 (pre-PhD).

For more information about the post, please contact the project leader (gms50@cam.ac.uk).

To apply, send a covering letter with a description of your qualifications and why you would like to work on this project along with a 2-page CV by December 12th to the project leader, Gyda Sindre, gms50@cam.ac.uk
